ADA RACINE

Carnival News

Michaelmen can pick their Queen at the same time they pick their subjects.

The voting for Queen of the Winter Carnival will be held during registration Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 1 and 2. A booth will be set up in the gym so all the students can register their choice as Queen of the Carnival.

Queen (take your pick) will be crowned at the Glee Club reception in the gym at 4 Friday afternoon.

Starting with the reception the Carnival will present two days of steady entertainment. The reception itself will feature selections by the Glee Club, dancing to the music of an orchestra and the cutting of the Carnival cake.

Friday night there will be the Carnival Ball with the Arabian Knights and the Barbary Coast orchestras and then the

Why Make The Retreat

It is little more than a waste of ink to urge all the students to be at the retreat. Even though it is compulsory we're not kidding ourselves that everyone will be there for all the services.

The sad part of this is that those who need it the most are the ones who will not be there. For it is always the same ones who, at the earliest opportunity, take off for home or for the nearest ski trail rather than make any sacrifice which would demand a little of their play-time; even when the sacrifice would be for their own spiritual well-being.

Some excuse themselves by saying that they don't need a retreat. To those we say -- if you think you don't need a retreat, it is a sure sign that you do.

Most Michaelmen will, of course, attend. All who do will benefit. To what extent they benefit is up to themselves.

It should be remembered that a retreat does not depend solely on the power and force of the preaching. In the last analysis, the success of a retreat depends on the state of mind of the individual. A proper state of mind can be induced by spiritual reading and prayer.

In other words, Tuesday and Wednesday nights are not movie nights.

We all need a spiritual check-up from time to time. The retreat gives us that opportunity. We owe it to ourselves to take advantage of it.

"Down With Sports"

Here's a good quote.

"It is my belief that sport, nor religion, has been the 'opiate of the people' in the last twenty years. Abroad and at home, sport has virtually ceased to be sporting; it has been commercialized, politicized, totalitarianized and even raised to the level of a religion; the cult of physical culture, an abominable and soul-killing heresy. In my opinion carousing in a tavern is far less bad for young men than this sober new puritanism of 'keeping fit.' Mussolini and Hitler have been its outstanding apostles, and my hope is that whatever happens to 'democracy' the war may vindicate the Churchillian cigar, whisky, and roast beef over pagan tee-totalism, vegetarianism and chest-expansion. Otherwise, civilization is doomed."

Pretty good, huh? He's in favor of beer drinking.

Who is this guy?

Well, at 17 he was sports editor of the Harrisburg, Pa., newspaper ("my first published words were fruits of a misspent youth").

He toured Europe as an "international journalist" ("I made fifteen dollars, which I had to go home to collect"). Eventually he was converted. Since his conversion he has become prominent among the country's thinkers and educators.

Why can't we get a guy like that up here once in a while?

We did. Last Friday night. And no one went to hear.

Last Friday night, Ross Hoffman spoke in Austin Hall. He is the head of the history department at Fordham, but his topic was not strictly history, it was the "Catholic mind" which is supposed to be a fairly common phenomenon at a Catholic school.

So why didn't anybody show up? There are a variety of reasons, none of which is much good.

First, we blame ourselves. The Michaelman's story was canned. We didn't put across the fellow's background or the importance of his talk.

Second, Delta Epsilon Sigma itself should have followed through with more publicity. It's easy to forget that a talk is scheduled for such and such a night, at least it seems so up here.

Third, we can blame the administration; that's always good for reader interest. Of all things, there was intramural basketball scheduled for that evening. Usually, the school does a good job of preventing such conflicts on this highly organized campus. It was just an unfortunate slip-up.

Finally, it was the students' fault, disregard all the other explanations. There were still many students, who knew the night and had no basketball or other such vital occupation.

Some of us HAD to study for exams. It's understandable. If that was your case, o.k. this editorial isn't directed at you. But there were plenty of students, on and near the campus who spent the evening at basketball, pinochle, or going to the show. They should have gone to the lecture.

We're not going into the question of "just what are we at college for anyhow?" We'll consider that sometime when we feel like writing 5000 words.

Seriously, that's what the matter boils down to. We're offered a chance to hear a top-notch speaker express his views and we miff it.

What are we here for anyhow?

LETTERS

Jan. 16, 1950

To The Editor:

First let it be understood that I make no claims to literary merit of any kind. However, I do feel that some answer should be made to Dan MacDonald's letter which was printed in a recent issue.

He is to be heartily congratulated for his efforts to raise the standards of "THE LANCE". On the other hand, I also believe that the "MICHAELMAN", being the campus periodical, has the right to criticize any literary work done by any student.

Mr. MacDonald must know that when an article containing such controversial matter as his appears, it is bound to evoke criticism. And who is entitled to make the criticism if not the same students whom he so mercilessly takes to task in his article?

If Mr. MacDonald sincerely believes his fellow students to be unfit for proper criticism by a student publication, I suggest that "THE LANCE" be made available only to those he would include in his closed discussion group. In such a way no tender feelings will be hurt and "THE LANCE" might gain the professional status that would render it immune to the cruel jibes of us amateur critics.

Sincerely
John H. Dolan

Vacation Ends Monday Night

The mid term vacation will end officially at 8 p.m., Monday night as the first conference of the annual retreat will be held. The freshmen will meet in the Chapel and the upperclassmen will meet in Austin Hall.

This year there will be several new regulations in effect during the retreat. As usual the only excuse is serious illness but this year any student who is prevented from making the retreat by

Smyles - By Bernie

Tony Cauley

It's really surprising to see the reception given the Golden Gloves by the people of Vermont, the one time a year they are put on. Even the first night, with all the mis-matches found standing room only, shortly after the first bout began. Talking about mis-matches, that is the only fault this column has to find with the entire set-up. It's really a shame to put some of those green kids in a ring with a guy who has one or two years of Golden Gloves behind him. They will argue I suppose, that you cannot tell how good a kid is until you see him in action, and this contest being strictly elimination, a kid just beginning would sooner or later have to fight the boys with a little ring know-how. Very true, and the only way out that I can see is to have two classes, one for novices and one for those with previous experience, with the winners of the latter group going on to Lowell. However, nobody forces a kid into the ring and if he gets it, he has no one to blame but himself.

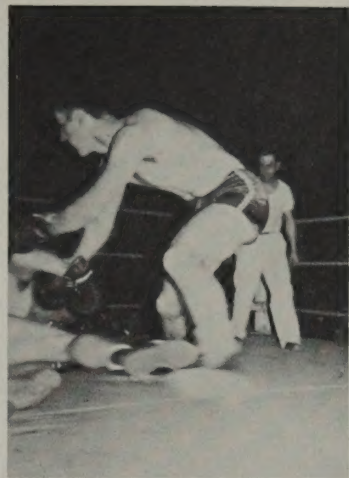

Still no ice and at this writing not one flake of snow on the ground. The question is, are we going to have enough this year for the winter-sports fans to put to use? We have had some snow, but it doesn't stay on the ground long enough to even think about skiing. The Outing Club has a swell line-up of events scheduled for the Carnival, but if it is then like it is now, some of them won't be run off.

BASKETBALL LET-DOWN

A team is bound to run into a bad night once in a while and I guess last Saturday was it for the Knights. What else could it be? A team that beats squads like St. Lawrence and Boston College and is rated sixth in New England, should have no trouble with a team like Amherst. Granted that Amherst has some good boys in their line-up, but still they do not rate with a few of the clubs we took into camp.

The only answer possible is that old let-down that comes once in a while, when nothing seems to go right. If you ask me, the let-down started at Norwich, where the Knights for one third of the game had to fight with all they had to maintain a ten-point lead. Here is hoping it's out of their system, because there is a scrappy team in St. A's coming up Sunday, and the cross-river boys looming in the not too far distance.

Jeff's Humble Knights In Slow Tilt At Amherst

by WHIT BARTLETT

Operating in a sluggish fashion and scarcely looking like the same team that beat Boston College a month ago, the St. Michael's College basketball team went down to a 64-52 defeat at the hands of the spirited Lord Jeffs of Amherst College last Saturday night. The game, played in the Amherst College cage, was the third defeat of the season for the Knights against eight wins.

Except for a short while in the second period when the Purple led by five points, Amherst was in command all the way. They succeeded in bottling up Ted Burzenski and had control of the boards most of the time. On the foul line they were particularly adept.

They caged 12 out of 17 foul tosses while the Knights could hit on only 14 of 25 from the charity stripe.

The first half was close all the way. The Lord Jeffs jumped into an early lead but the Knights came back fast to go out front with about 5 minutes to go but Amherst got three quick hoops and tied the Knights 25-25 with about 3 minutes to go. Here Don Nesbitt caged a set shot and the Jeffs went into the lead they never lost.

In the second half Ken Wright, the leading Amherst scorer, got three baskets before the half was two minutes old and the Jeffs raced to a 43-32 lead after four minutes of play. The Knights fought back to within five points but a long set shot by Bennett stopped the threat and the Amherst cagers just coasted to their third victory of the season.

Wright was high man in the scoring department for Amherst, garnering 19 points on 9 field goals and 1 free toss, while Jim Farley led the Knights with 14 points.

Famed Reformer To Speak, Fr. Ligutti Here Friday

A man who has argued before the general assembly of the UN will speak on St. Michael's campus this week.

At 1 p.m., Friday, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Luigi Ligutti will give an informal talk in the Science Hall. The meeting will be open to faculty members and any students left on campus.

Msgr. Ligutti is Executive Director of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. For twenty years he has been the Catholic Church's foremost American spokesman on a variety of subjects from cooperatives and credit unions to soil conservation. He is the Vatican's representative to the UN's Council on Human Rights.

In this connection, he was especially prominent in 1946 when he fought to have the UN members relax their immigration barriers to accommodate some of the 30 million DP's in Europe.

Early in the New Deal years, Msgr. Ligutti made headlines throughout the country by putting these principles in practice. Nearly all his parishioners in Granger, Iowa, were unemployed miners. Starting with a loan of $200,000 from the government he established 50 miner families as part time farmers.

Msgr. Ligutti will speak at St. Michael's through the courtesy of the Rural Life Conference for Vermont Pastors.

Still another special requirement for this retreat is that each student have his photograph taken. All students have been assigned hours at which they will have their picture taken for use by Father D'Agostino's office.

Michaelmen who wish to make this retreat the "best ever" will be able to follow it up by participating in the Nocturnal Devotion exercises Thursday lads to see action was Jim Barry in the 135 division, who was pitted against Peter Demar of the St. Albans Moose Club. The affair was a close one, with Demar gaining the verdict by a split decision.

Forrest Rouelle, also in the 147 pound class, finally got things moving for the St. Michael's team, as he stopped Robert Trainor of the St. Alban's Moose Club in 55 seconds of the second round.

In the 175 pound class, St. Michael's Dick Johnson had little trouble with Sheldon Meaker of the UVM team. A left cross by Johnson eliminated Meaker at 1:13 of the first round. Meaker was on one knee at the count of ten but was counted out by referee Ernie Demag.

Displaying the most power yet seen in this year's Golden Glove's bouts, Neil Begin put Bob Slater of the UVM team to sleep at 2:45 of the first round. Slater was game, but could not stand up to the terrific lefts and rights of the Michaelmen's Begin.

Knights Pluck Hawks In First Sunday Game

by WHIT BARTLETT

The Purple Knights wrapped up their ninth victory of the season Sunday night in the Burlington Memorial Auditorium as they waltzed to an easy 63-41 victory over the high scoring St. Anselm's Hawks quintet. It was strictly a team victory as three members of the Knights hit for double figures.

The Knights stepped into the lead after the first minute of play and never lost it after that. Sparked by Bob Duffy and Jim Farley the Knights raced to a 27-24 lead at half time. The only time the Hawks made a serious threat was late in the first half when they came within 3 points of the Michaelmen.

As usual Farley was all over the floor leading the attack for the Knights. He wound up with 13 points and was high man for the Hilltoppers. Bob Duffy, back in action after a month, was outstanding. His timely set shots and all round floor play was superb when you figure he still had his damaged hand heavily bandaged. Bob Kateley chipped in with ten points and Ted Burzenski had 11 besides playing a bangup game on defense.

For the Hawks Bastian had 20 points mostly on hook shots and tap ins to lead St. A's. In the Prelim the Purple

Frosh ran over the General Electric five 104 to 44. George Barry had 18 points to pace the winners
